CANCERS CAN BE CURED

DR. L. CHASE,

(LATE OF PORTLAND).

THE CELEBRATED

INDIANOPATHY. CANCER & HUMOR

DOCTOR,

HAVING purchased the residence of H A. Wood 54 Hammond Street Bangor, Maine would be happy to be consulted by all who are afflicted with Cancers, Cancer Humors, Tumors, Scrofula Leprosy Salt Rheum Fits, Neuralgia Bronchial Affections Catarrh Rheumatism Sick Headache, Liver Diseases Female Weaknesses, Piles, Diseases of the Throat and Lungs Diseases of the Kidneys Stiff Joints Gravel Diabetes &c &c.

Dr Chase has practiced in his profession for sixteen years and in that time has spent two years in Florida and Cuba, for the purpose of gaining a correct knowledge of the most efficient remedies used by the various tribes of Indians of that country and by great expense has gained many valuable secrets which have heretofore been unknown to the world.

In Cancer he claims superiority over all other Physicians of the age, for he never fails to perform a cure when taken in a proper stage

His mode of curing Cancers is by the application of a plaster which is strictly vegetable and will have no effect upon the healthy flesh, and in no case uses a knife as does Dr Greene of Boston

He also boldly asserts that he can tell every individual their diseases and location of their pains and describe their feelings in almost every case more minutely than they can possibly themselves

Dr Chase is not a Clairvoyant but conducts his examinations on a strictly scientific principle, and will challenge any professed medium for a test examination

Office hours from 9 A M to 8 P M Examinations free Office at residence No 54 Hammond Street. November 7 1866 d&w

WORM LOZENGES.

WE can with confidence point to FELLOWS' WORM LOZENGES as the most perfect remedy for those troublesome pests

INTESTINAL WORMS

After years of careful experiment, success has crowned our efforts and we now offer to the world a confection without a single fault, being safe convenient, effectual and pleasant. No injurious result can occur let them be used in whatever quantity Not a particle of calomel enters their composition They may be used without further preparation and at any time. Children will eagerly devour all you give them, and ask for more They never fail in expelling Worms from their dwelling place and they will always strengthen the weak and emaciated, even when he is not afflicted with worms.

Various remedies have from time to time, been recommended, such as calomel, oil of wormseed terpentine, &c. producing dangerous and sometimes fatal consequences. After much research study and experiments, embracing several years the proprietors of FELLOWS' WORM LOZENGES have succeeded in producing this remedy free from all objections, and positively safe, pleasant and effectual. They do not kill the worms, but act by making their dwelling place disagreeable to them In order to assure consumers of the genuineness of these Lozenges, the analysis of Dr A A Hayes State Assayer, is annexed—

"I have analyzed the Worm Lozenges prepared by Messrs FELLOWS & CO., and find that they are free from mercury and other metalic or mineral matter. These Lozenges are skillfully compounded pleasant to the taste, safe, yet sure and effectual in their operation. Respectfully A A HAYES, M D Assayer to the State of Mass

Researches made into American and Foreign works, to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same Copies of the claims of any patent furnished by remitting one dollar Assignments recorded in Washington

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents, or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

During eight months the subscriber, in the course of his large practice made on twice rejected applications SIXTEEN APPEALS every one of which was decided in his favor by the Commissioner of Patents.

"I regard Mr Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHAS MASON," Commissioner of Patents

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they can not employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office EDMUND BURKE," Late Commissioner of Patents

"Mr R H EDDY has made for me THIRTEEN applications, in all but ONE of which patents have been granted, and that one is now pending Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their patents as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. Financial Record.

NATIONAL BANK FAILURES.

First National Bank of Attica, N Y, Failed—Merchants' Nat'l Bank Washington, D C, Failed. National Union Bank of Rochester, N Y Closing. Venango National Bank, Franklin Pa. Failed.

COUNTERFEIT—FIRST NATIONAL BANK NOTES.

20s, a close imitation of the genuine notes and well calculated to deceive The back of the bill is rather coarse. The plate liable to be altered to any of the National Banks.

HIGHLAND NATIONAL BANK OF NEWBURG, N Y

10s imitation—figure of liberty on an eagle on right end, Franklin and boy on left. The signatures are engraved in the counterfeit and in the genuine they are written The lightning, grasped by the hand of Liberty, is barely perceptible in the genuine, while in the counterfeit it is broadly defined on a dark, coarse back ground, which in the genuine is light. On the back of the note the followers of DeSoto appear as if engaged in a terrible battle and appear mixed up while in the fore ground that which is designed for a priest, bears the exact image of a monkey

UNITED STATES COMPOUND INTEREST NOTES

100s, counterfeits are in circulation A fac-simile of the genuine bill but the engraving is not so fine. They are dated May 15th 1866. Letter B The green ink on the back of the counterfeit is paler than that in the genuine Be careful and examine well all before taking them, as they have deceived some of our best judges

UNITED STATES LEGAL TENDER NOTES

10s, imitation—the portrait of Lincoln on the left end, is very dark, and the eyes poor, while the toes of the female on the right end can scarcely be seen. On the genuine they are very distinct. Look out for them

50s, imitations—poorly done engraving coarse and the bills look blurred The green ink used is lighter than the genuine. The dies and all are one-eighth of an inch larger than the genuine

100s, imitated Upper left, spread eagle sitting on a rock The general appearance of the bill is good The wings of the eagle are coarse and cloudy streaky The imprint of the American Bank Note Company at the top is larger than in the genuine On the right end of the back of the bill the 100 in the circles are inverted thus "100" In the genuine the 100 in the circles is the left end reads thus "001" in the counterfeit they are thus "100" The paper is also heavier

NATIONAL BANKS.

1s altered to 10s—vig of 1s two female figures with hands clasped, one pointing upwards 10s having figure of Franklin drawing electricity from the clouds and on the back of the bill is DeSoto discovering the Mississippi. On back of 1s, is the Landing of the Pilgrims Well done

50s altered from 5s those have vig on one hand—and landing of Columbus on back Look out for this alteration

TO MILL OWNERS.

Hoisting & Canting Machine,

FOR HOISTING LUMBER

Upon Gang Edger Tables.

BY this machine lumber is hoisted upon EDGER TABLES to be edged, after passing through the Gang Sawers, by water or steam power, thereby saving all the hard lifting labor of edgers as is well known so arduous in saw mills.

Two men will edge from two to three thousand feet more lumber in a day with, than without, and do it much easier

Whether sawing large or small lumber it hoists the largest as well as the smallest sticks quicker than can be done by hand, and with no more effort than to handle one inch boards. In fact this machine hoists the heaviest timber with ease and rapidity, that is surprising and gratifying to see

A greater labor saving machine has not been invented in a century, the value of which can never be computed in dollars and cents

Every one who pays his money for this machine will receive back again its entire cost by its use in one season, and in most cases in one half that time

They are strong and durable machines, and will stand constant use for years.

The Commercial's special says Secretary Stanton has telegraphed to Gen. Sheridan an approval of his conduct in changing the officials at New Orleans

[From the Chicago Journal]

A FUNNY SCENE—A YOUNG MAN WHOSE SOCIETY IS AN EQUIVALENT FOR HIS BOARD Mr H L Patton came before the justice yesterday morning, and was clamorous in demanding a warrant for his landlady, who had unlawfully seized and detained his clothes, falsely claiming that he was indebted to her for rent, which was not the case

The landlady, Mrs. E A. Barrett, was sent for, and it was suggested to her that an explanation would not be amiss Mrs Barrett after having her three daughters and little boy sworn, in order that she might use them if she saw fit, proceeded to state that she had three weeks before seen an advertisement stating that a young man wanted to find a boarding house where his society would be an equivalent for his board Then she reflected that it would be very nice to have a young fellow in the house who could beau the girls, talk agreeably at dinner, and be contented with what he had to eat, and persuade his fellow sufferers that they should be the same. So she answered the advertisement, and Mr Patton made his appearance, with an umbrella and a very meagre trunk. Was that not correct?

Mr Patton replied that generally speaking it was He could pass over the slur on his trunk

She then continued to state that she did not look for much or anything particularly sociable the first day. It was only fair that he should get acquainted So she introduced him to everybody

The next day, just before dinner, she told him to go ahead and be "society" Instead of talking, however, he had devoted himself to eating with an earnestness and devotion which, whilst it flattered the cook, bid fair to ruin the mistress That same evening she had requested him to take the girls to a neighbor's, and he had plead an engagement These things had surprised and displeased her

Mr Patton here desired to know of the Justice whether "society, as he used it in his advertisement could be taken to mean carrying those homely girls to a party, where he was obliged to dance with them as no one else would (here the girls chorally remarked "Oh you never!") and lugging a quarrelsome child up stairs, sitting by him until he went to sleep

Opinion reserved

Mrs Barrett observed that she scorned such insinuations Being on oath she could conscientiously say that her daughters were not homely, and did not need to go begging anywhere

As for the boy, speaking under oath, he was the sweetest child in the world and it was a pleasure to sit and listen to his prattle. How any person with the heart of a man could so blackly slander him, she did not see But notwithstanding her remonstrances Mr Patton would not talk at meal time—He would not tell stories! He would not sing, talk to the girls, or be useful about the house He demanded lunch, blasphemed the butter, and was once brought home very drunk How he got drunk she did not know Of course it was not with his own money

Mr Patton urged that it was immaterial, and it was decided that it was

The next morning, being headachy, he had insulted her best boarder, and demanded three cups of coffee She told him that her patience was exhausted He must pay her in paper and not in words He refused—She seized his baggage, and little enough it was

Mr. Patton then quoted the familiar saying in regard to casting pearls before swine, and proceeded to make it clear to all, that he looked upon his intercourse with Mrs. Barrett as an example of the folly of such a course. What true society meant, they did not know. His quiet wit, his unobtrusive knowledge, was wasted on them They wanted some one to sing comic songs, propose conundrums, and treat the girls—He had been nurtured in a different school. His ideas of society were very different

"Yes, indeed," cried Mrs Barrett, "he could not even play the accordeon"

The Justice declined to give an opinion as to the value of Mr Patton's society, or what sort of society is an equivalent for board, but decided that he should have his clothes, and leave the house.

THE EFFECTS OF THE OLD SLAVERY CURSE A correspondent of the Jaynesville Gazette who recently went down to James river in Virginia, writes—

"The distance from Richmond to Norfolk is about the same as from Jaynesville to the mouth of Rock River, and the soil of the valley of the James must have originally been of equal fertility with that of the Rock, yet all the towns, villages and landings, between the two first mentioned points would not make if put together, a place the size of Beloit. I know this must seem incredible, but it is a melancholy fact; and our boat did not receive and discharge, at the twenty or more landings we made, as much freight as is shipped from Jaynesville, every day in the week, Sundays excepted. The reason for this is as obvious as the fact is palpable, and yet these people don't seem to know what ails them, and are filled with rage and grief that the cause of all this disgraceful poverty is to be destroyed forever The land is held in large tracts, one man I was told owning as many as 40,000 acres, and many others from 2,000 to 8,000 acres The farm houses are two, three, and four miles apart, and neither school house nor church can be found on the banks of the James between Richmond and Norfolk This state of things grew out of the system of slavery, and must be changed entirely or the country can never become rich nor prosperous Of course this relates to such of the country as can be seen from the boat in passing; I can not say but the interior may present a better state of things, but as this is equally true of the country along the line of the railroad from Aquia Creek to Richmond, I have come to the conclusion that it is true of the State, if not true of the whole South There is a huge work to be done before this land can be fully and thoroughly reconstructed It involves a radical change in their social and industrial, as well as in their political ideas This can only be effected by a large infusion of Northern industry and intelligence, backed up by Northern capital These large States must be cut up into small farms and sold at such prices as will induce immigration If a good colony of northern farmers, with a proper complement of mechanics, school teachers, preachers, &c, could be established in every county in the State, it would be of more solid advantage to it than the control of the political machinery of the government for fifty years And it is to this end that every friend of the South should bend his energies The regeneration of their land is the great work of the age, and every philanthropist, every friend of the black man, as well as of white, should take hold of it with a zeal and an energy commensurate with its importance There is money in it too, as well as patriotism

FRIDAY, MARCH 29, 1867.

THE RAILROAD CONVENTION. The meeting in our city yesterday (of which we give a report below) in aid of the Bangor and Piscataquis Railroad, was one of the best in spirit and determination that we have ever attended. That the road will be built, and that speedily, we cannot doubt. There was but one sentiment expressed in regard to the route—that the most feasible, cheapest, and most effectual for the development of the resources of Piscataquis, is that for which a charter is already obtained; by way of the Piscataquis valley to Dover, connecting at Milford. It is beyond comparison the cheapest route to build—probably the cheapest in New England of the same length. Almost on a level for the whole distance, the cost of grading will be exceedingly low, and for much of the distance the road-bed itself being of gravel, and sleepers of the best quality to be cut on the route. The whole cost of the road next, our Piscataquis friends say be less than $20,000 a mile—or about $750,000 in all. To meet this we shall have the loan from Bangor, $500,000, which will produce when sold from $450,000 to $475,000. Our Piscataquis friends promise to raise $100,000, and perhaps more, and the people of Bangor and vicinity ought certainly to subscribe $150,000—making $700,000 to $725,000—with the Piscataquis lands donated by the State to the E. & N. A. R. W. for the Piscataquis branch. We see no difficulty about the means, if the people of Bangor will do what they can very easily do in the way of subscription, and what they once did do for the Eu. & No. Am. Our Piscataquis friends are full of hope and zeal for the enterprise. They want this road, whether others are built or not.

to Winterport, is the legitimate outlet of Piscataquis. However rich in natural resources that region might be, the people would not be contented to remain there unless made available. The time had gone by to suppose that such an enterprise as the present was to be carried forward by parties from abroad. It is a home work. It is an easy matter to make a railroad if all interested are but united. Individuals, by threes and a half dozen, build ships of a hundred thousand dollars value, and little is said about it. The same energy and spirit, if concentrated, would easily build the road. If Belfast wants to build a road, and has more energy and pluck than we have, let them do it. But with Penobscot and Piscataquis united, the road may be set down as a fact soon to be realized.

David Brown, Esq., of Hampden, tho't once that railroads were a good thing to get out of the State with, but having travelled considerable, he had come to the conclusion that the State is not behind others in its material resources. What has been done for the West by railroads is well known. What were the products of the West worth, if they could not be got to market, and its resources made available? The slate quarries alone would pay the whole cost of the road. There are but two or three similar quarries in the world, the most prominent at Bangor in Wales. We used to think that "Down-East" was a jumping off place; but it is now discovered that the East also abounds in resources of immense wealth, and the time is coming when Maine shall occupy a central, rather than an extreme position. As to the Belfast road, let them build it; only let ours be built first.

Nath'l Wilson, Esq., of Orono, had for years felt much interest in railroads. Orono had contributed largely to railroad enterprise, and though obstacles had interposed to defer the realization of its hopes, the time is now at hand when its faith is to see a reward. Property has already begun to feel the stimulus. Real estate has already advanced there twenty-five per cent. The great difficulty in Bangor had usually been a want of concentration of interests and energies. They have been too long confined to pine and spruce to be easily diverted. But if we do not wake up, the game is up. Move now—take advantage of the feeling judiciously and wisely stirred. The mistake was made when Bangor built westward instead of reaching up-river-ward. Had we done so we should have saved what has been now diverted by the enterprise of our neighbors in the east, while the western road would have taken care of itself.

Gen. H. M. Plaisted said his lack of material interest rendered him modest in responding to the call from the chair. But as a young man he felt great interest in the enterprise. The speaker called attention to the immense resources lying to the north of us, to the millions of acres of timber lands, and the abundant material for ship-building. Even the wealth of the region immediately about us in the one item of hemlock bark is far greater than we should believe but upon actual computation. In this county alone four tanneries distribute $100,000 to the producers of hemlock bark. With facilities for rendering all their resources available, manufactures and the natural products would be so increased that one hundred thousand population for Bangor might reasonably be counted on at no distant day.

The Committee on Resolutions here reported the following, which were received with tremendous applause:

RESOLUTIONS.

Resolved, That it is the unanimous sense of this Convention, comprised of citizens of Penobscot, Piscataquis and Waldo counties, that it is for the public good that a Railroad be constructed to Moosehead Lake via Milo and Dover; that the public good requires that it be commenced at once and prosecuted without delay or intermission until the counties represented are indissolubly joined by artificial as they are by natural bonds.

Resolved, That the time for discussion of the feasibility of routes from Bangor into Piscataquis County is past; that the route is as clearly defined as that from Bangor to Winterport, and that the route on which we are to construct a railroad if at all, is embraced in the charter to the Bangor & Piscataquis Railroad Company.

Resolved, That the interests of the counties of Penobscot and Piscataquis, demand the construction of a Railroad from Bangor to a winter seaport; and that the proposed Railroad from Bangor to the town of Winterport commends itself to our judgment, demands our support and shall receive our aid.

Resolved, That it is expedient that an immediate survey and location of the route under the charter of the Bangor and Piscataquis Railroad Company be made by some competent engineer.

Resolved, That the Subscription Books for the stock of the Bangor & Piscataquis Railroad should be opened at once, and a Committee chosen to superintend obtaining subscriptions.

Hon. Isaiah Stetson came to the meeting to show his interest in a railroad to Piscataquis. He went for a railroad, and here is the place to begin. The route indicated by the charter is the only one that can now be prosecuted to advantage. If other plans are suggested, we may wait and wait till our patience is exhausted and not have any road at all. The City Hall had seen many conventions for various purposes of strong interest, but it never had witnessed a meeting which so strongly touched the substantial material interests of this section. Why is Portland so eager to get connection with this region to the north and northwest of us? It is to get the business, and it will get it unless we are up and at it in time. The day of our material salvation is now.

Mr. Stetson referred to the difficulties encountered in the Legislature, and said we must take things as they are. The E. & N. A. Railroad has a large grant of timber lands in this section in its aid. It will not permit a competing interest, but with the Piscataquis road as a branch, it will concede the benefits of this grant to its construction; if we seek for an independent road, we shall lose all this. Our interest is then to connect with the E. & N. A. road at Milford, and if we do not do it, we get no road at all.

F. A. Wilson Esq. here read a note from G. K. Jewett Esq., representing the E. & N. A. Railroad, expressing the most friendly feeling, suggesting that each friend of the measure should cordially defer his own partiality to the judgment of the majority, and offering his name in the sum of five thousand dollars to the subscription roll. [Mr. Jewett was necessarily absent from town.]

Adjourned to 2 o'clock P. M.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Upon the re-assembling of the Convention, George W. Ladd, Esq., being called upon, occupied an hour in a forcible and eloquent presentation of the arguments in favor of promptly and vigorously prosecuting this enterprise. His speech was particularly valuable in the statistics and estimates [illegible] which to get out into the world, not by way of Bangor. They thought the people here so engrossed in matters of moment, in the E. & N. A. Railway and other enterprises, that Piscataquis could hardly look this way for encouragement, and its people had been attracted to the Dexter project, with which by a twelve mile connection, they could be enlarged. They did not know but what Bangor would let them haul potatoes over Charleston hill thirty years longer. Unexpectedly they were gladdened by the movement here to reach them, and recognized the superiority of the natural route. The tendencies of the Piscataquis people, as well as its waters and associations, are all in this direction, and in the mutual interests of the sections they were willing to be bound to us by indissoluble bonds of iron, never to be broken. And just at the point when the appeal was made to turn to Belfast as the outlet of Piscataquis to tide-water, the Winterport project came in most opportunely to fill the gap.

The resources of Piscataquis are greater than has been dreamed of, abounding in inexhaustible quarries of slate, all along the river, which will be wrought as soon as the road is built. The timber resources are also immense. The product of what are denominated waste timber lands is sufficient to supply the smaller wooden manufactures for the world. All that is wanted is the means of communication and transportation to make it all available. While the potatoe crop nearer the coast is liable to injury and destruction from the humidity of the ocean, his baneful influence seldom reaches beyond the Charleston hills, and the crop is almost sure. With a railroad the production could scarcely be calculated. It would be quadrupled at least.

The picture drawn by Dr. Ladd, though to some apparently extravagant, was not overdrawn, but at no distant day would rather be the minimum than the maximum of the capabilities of the Piscataquis valley.

Upon the route question, that via Milo is the only one to be thought of. That suggested by way of the valley of the Kenduskeag, through Corinth, might get into Dover, but it would require a stationary engine to get out, and it means no road at all. On the Milo route every mile is full of resources, and the grade so level that scarcely any obstacle opposes itself. While Piscataquis is rich in material resources, it is poor in accumulated wealth, though much will be done in the way of subscription. Bangor possesses wealth, and all that is required is for the mutual interests to put shoulder to the work. But should the road not be built, Piscataquis, governed by self-interest as are all communities, must look towards Dexter—The Milo route constructed will kill off the Dexter road. Bangor is well secured in loaning her credit. He did not object to it. It was to do the lion's work and should have the lion's share. It must be a poor investment indeed if when a sum was added equal to the loan, it would not pay the interest on the loan.

Hon. A. M. Robinson, of Dover, followed in an effective speech in favor of the enterprise. Piscataquis, with its material wealth and agricultural capacity, invites the capital of Bangor to develope them. Most of the timber land of Piscataquis is in the hands of Bangor men. Pluck and money are the two requisites, and the true policy is to the location as it is, without taking to the right or left. There are about one hundred and ten townships in Piscataquis county and but eighteen settled. Within the last decade the population has increased but two per cent., and yet the accumulated wealth had increased during the same time fifty per cent. Without the opening of enterprise the substantial wealth of the State, which is population, will disappear. This enterprise will hold the population of the county and add to it. It may be asked what can Piscataquis do for the enterprise. She will do all she can. The wealth of Bangor in 1860 was set down at six million dollars; that of Piscataquis at one million dollars. The latter will respond in the ratio of these figures. But suppose after all it should fall behind? The Legislature should then be required to make some return for the broad domain donated from Piscataquis broadcast throughout the State, a mere pittance of which had been for the benefit of local objects.

[Hon. Isaiah Stetson said the State still owns eighty-four thousand acres in Piscataquis, which will be donated to the enterprise.]

Mr. Robinson said he wanted more than that. Those who go to the Legislature should see to this. Another subject of claim upon the State Treasury was in the reservations in each township for ministerial and school purposes, the history of which the speaker gave. If we but stand and draw together we shall soon realize the object of our wishes. Bangor and Piscataquis are linked in friendship and interest. Their relations should never be severed.

Hon. Phineas Tolman, of Milo, arose to answer some objections which he had heard raised against the act obtained from the last Legislature, and alluded to the difficulties attending it. It was the best that could be had. The old charter of 1861, renewed in 1864, expired January 1st, 1867. Meantime other interests had arisen, and the charter could only be revived on certain conditions.

Col. T. H. Cushing of Winterport being called for, spoke in behalf of the Winterport road—the necessary link to give Bangor and the Piscataquis unobstructed tide-water outlet. Belfast had aspired to claim for herself the outlet of all Northern Maine.—When her port, four years out of five, is obstructed some two months during winter, her pretensions to this claim are ridiculous. He cited repeated instances when vessels had landed Belfast freight on the ice, a mile or two out of the harbor, and then turning about, navigating the eastern passage to Winterport, which was entirely free from ice. In 1851 Belfast harbor was locked up nearly all winter.

The Winterport road will cost only $600,000. This road built, the proprietors of the present line of steamers would put on a line all the year round which would be creditable to the route, and instead of eight dollars now charged, passengers could be conveyed to Boston for five dollars. The Piscataquis road will be built. That is evident. Will Bangor suffer herself to be shut up for a third of the year when she can have an outlet [illegible] hundred or two thousand dollars?

Hon. E. H. Merrill, of Brownville, said he brought a delegation down to see where they stood. Without a branch to Brownville [illegible] gave their adhesion [illegible] He wished this enterprise, however, God speed.

Hon. Isaiah Stetson explained that the loan [illegible] from Bangor to Dover. If we could run a road [illegible]

Bangor and Piscataquis Railroad Meeting.

Agreeably to notice, the friends of this enterprise assembled at the City Hall yesterday forenoon at 10 o'clock. The Hall was entirely filled, and comprised, besides the people of Bangor, and delegations from Winterport, Frankfort, Hampden, &c., a noble delegation of over one hundred of the substantial citizens of Piscataquis County.

The meeting was called to order by his Honor Mayor Wakefield, who, in an appropriate and forcible manner, adverted to the great interest which every citizen should have at heart, and to the great advantages resulting to communities from railroad communication. The farmers of Piscataquis, the possessor of a hundred acres, could give one half to the enterprise and find himself the gainer. The Mayor said his chief purpose was to give those from abroad actuated by a common interest a cordial greeting, and welcome the noble delegation from Piscataquis to our city. He would also take the liberty to call upon a gentleman intimately identified with all the best interests of this section of the State, and of large experience to preside over the meeting—the Hon. Hannibal Hamlin.

Mr. Hamlin upon taking the chair was warmly received. He remarked that the purpose for which the meeting was convened, the objects underlying it and the benefits to be secured were well understood.—Cheap and rapid intercommunication was one of the best recognized elements of material prosperity and the greatest leveller in the world, and railroads are the most effective means to accomplish it. Every man in the community, however humble, has a direct interest in the products of Piscataquis, and the man of wealth an interest in proportion to his means, and if all should come up to the enterprise with the same unanimity and spirit of the delegation from that County the work is done. There is no better agricultural region than Piscataquis.—Physical geography demonstrates that the natural outlet of that valley is here. As to route we want the best, wherever it is—to be determined by men of the fullest experience and best judgment. If we will but develop our water power and open up our resources as we may and ought, we may not only keep our young men at home, but invite young men here from abroad. We have the means of wealth possessed by no other State. Let us act wisely and timely.

The meeting was then further organized by the choice of the following gentlemen as

He was born here and expects to live here, and felt an ambition to contribute in some way to the welfare of his native city. Dr. Schenck on Dyspepsia.

SYMPTOMS, CAUSES AND REMEDY.

Symptoms of Dyspepsia—A sense of fullness, tightness, and weight in the stomach, together with flatulency, acidity, sour, offensive belching of wind, water-brash and vomiting, and a great deal of what a person calls an all-gone feeling at the pit of the stomach; frequently there is also a palpitation of the heart, which physicians mistake for heart disease, and when the stomach is in this condition it is coated with a mucus or slime. The rough fibrous portions of the stomach, similar to what we see in tripe, is what throws out the gastric juice, and when the stomach gets a thick coat of slime on it, it prevents the gastric juice from flowing, and digestion ceases. Schenck's seaweed tonic dissolves this mucus or slime, and restores the stomach to its natural condition.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills are also required to carry off this morbid matter. Two-thirds of the cases of Consumption are caused from this diseased state of the stomach; the liver becoming torpid, it ceases to throw out bile, and in a short time the whole system is deranged. The mucous membrance of the bronchial tubes sympathizes with the other organs, and before the patient is aware of it, he or she has Bronchial or Pulmonary Consumption.

Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup cannot act freely thro' the blood when the system is in this locked-up condition, without the aid of the Sea Weed Tonic and Mandrake Pills. The Liver has all of the venous blood to strain, and when it gets in a morbid condition, blood and bile run through the system mixed, and the whole body becomes so low, and the blood so thick it can hardly run through the veins. In a majority of cases hemorrhages occur from the thick condition of the blood. The Mandrake Pills act on the Liver similar to calomel, or they do what that does—it unlocks the gall bladders, starts the bile, and the blood begins to circulate naturally through the veins, and the hemorrhages cease. If, when persons are attacked with hemorrhage, they would first take a good purgative, something that would act on the liver, they would soon be relieved from bleeding from the lungs, and this is the only way, for astringents are only temporary, and irritate the bronchial tubes, and lay the groundwork for consumption.

DR. SCHENCK will be professionally at his rooms every week, 32 Bond Street, New York, and 35 Hanover Street, Boston, from 9 A. M. until 3 P. M. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with the Respirometer the charge is $5.

His medicines are for sale by all druggists and dealers. Also a full supply at all times at his rooms.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 the half dozen. Mandrake Pills 25 cents per box.

OF RECENT TIMES,—by Parton.
mch 22 Rec'd by E. F. DUREN.

DR. JENNINGS,

OCULIST AND AURIST,

HAVING met with eminent success in his practice in Fall River and New Bedford, for over two years, in removing Cataracts, Ulcers, Inflammation, and other diseases from the eye—in restoring hearing, &c., has taken Rooms Nos. 35 and 36 at the Bangor House, where he will be happy to render his professional services to all those afflicted with the above complaints. As he brings such ample proofs of his ability to perform whatever he advertises, the public can depend that he will not take any one under his care or practice without benefiting or curing.

Below are a few of the numerous certificates he is constantly receiving:

DR. JENNINGS—Dear Sir:—For the benefit of others, I wish to state, that some sixteen months since, Mrs. Thurston received an injury in the eye which caused an obstinate inflammation, much suffering, impaired the sight, and feared might destroy it altogether. We employed various remedies, consulted a distinguished Oculist, of Boston, but without permanent relief. A few weeks ago we consulted you, and by your treatment the inflammation has been reduced, the pain relieved, the sight restored, with every present prospect of a permanent cure. We have every reason to thank and speak well of your treatment in the case.
REV. E. THURSTON.
Fall River, Sept. 18, 1865.

P.S. Any reference to me, I shall be most happy to answer by mail or otherwise.

State of Mass., Bristol Co., Fall River.
I take this method of expressing my gratitude to Dr. J. M. Jennings for his successful treatment in the case of my daughter, whose eyes had been afflicted for five years; so much so they had become ulcerated; also the formation of cataracts in both the eyes, which had nearly destroyed her sight. She had been under the treatment of others, who had failed to help her. It is now five years since she commenced the treatment, and in six months was entirely cured. I would cheerfully recommend him to all thus afflicted. WM. V. HUNTSMAN.
Fall River, August 24, 1865.

This may certify that I am acquainted with Dr. Jennings, and his system of treating deafness and loss of eye-sight. I am using his remedies for deafness. So far as I have seen, the benefit resulting from those who have been under his treatment, I feel no hesitation in recommending it to those who are suffering from the above diseases.
DR. I. FISKE.

To DR. JENNINGS, Room 35 Parker House.
For the benefit of others—I wish to state, that less than three weeks ago my daughter could scarcely see to read at all, was troubled with noises in her head, and was dull of hearing; for a long time has been troubled with a bad humor in and about her head, also subject to the headache for years. I called on Dr. Jennings at the Parker House, and he said he could help her, and commenced treatment. The improvement in her case has been great, much more than I could have expected, in so short a time. She can now see to read the finest print, her hearing is better, and her humor is fast disappearing, and she has been entirely cured of the headache.

The afflicted should not fail to see.
The man who has done so much for me.

Foreign Congress.

FIRST SESSION.

WASHINGTON, March 28.

Senate.

The Chair laid before the Senate resolutions of the Republican Convention of Maryland, held yesterday, which were read and referred to the Judiciary committee.

Mr. Cattell called up the joint resolution passed by the House yesterday to amend the wool tariff bill. Passed.

The Senate after transacting some unimportant business took up the appropriation resolution, the pending question being on concurring in the House amendment providing for final sine die adjournment.

Mr. Edmunds moved, as a substitute, that both Houses adjourn from noon (to-day) until the first Monday in December next, unless otherwise ordered by a vote of two-thirds of the members present, and that the President of the Senate and Speaker of the House shall, on ... day, adjourn their respective Houses until the first Monday in December."

Mr. Fessenden moved to lay the resolution and amendments on the table. Disagreed to, 44 to 62.

Mr. Donnelly's amendment was agreed to.

Mr. Allison's substitute for Mr. Paint's resolution was then agreed to.

Mr. Radcliffe's eight hour bill, which was passed, constituting eight hours a day's work for all laborers, workmen or mechanics employed by or on behalf of the government of the United States.

The Senate's amendment to the adjournment resolution was taken from the Speaker's table.

Mr. Bingham moved to concur in the Senate's amendment.

The House refused to concur and asked for a committee of conference.

After other unimportant business the House adjourned.

THE PLAINS AND THE WESTERN TRADERS.—Mr. Dixon's Work on "New America" has the following passage:

"By daring ingenuity and patience the western trader has pushed a way for himself across this difficult trail of land; making an opening for trade and travel between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. He has done this at first as a private man, without help from the state, without chase from any learned body, at a cost of blood and money which can never be counted upon earth; and for this reason: the western man values nothing of blood, nothing of treasure, when he regards them as being invested in a business that will pay. Holding his life in his hand, his reckless, jovial fellow, swearing over much, brimming with holy when help is of use, is careless of either his own or yours—far beyond an 'Arab, almost beyond a Chinese. This path through the prairie has been paved by him again and again, with bones; but the trace of his passage, of his suffering, is swept out of sight with the autumnal flowers. Nature is here too strong for man to do more than throw a trail upon her landscape, which may show itself for a day in its bunch-grass, seeping the grass, and then vanish from sight like the track of a ship at sea. The prairie is not man's home. Even if he had time to plant and reap it, he could hardly grow a blade of grass, a stalk of Indian corn, on those open flats, where myriads of locusts clatter through the air, devouring in their hunger every green leaf and twig."

INCOME OF THE ATLANTIC CABLE COMPANY. At the annual meeting of the Atlantic Telegraph Company, held in London on the 12th instant, Sir C. Lampson, one of the directors, gave the following statistics of receipts from the time the line was opened up to the period of the meeting:

"Taking periods of four weeks from the time the line was opened, including Sundays and the days when the communication at the other end was interrupted, or when on this side of the Atlantic the Faraday injured the land lines, he found that the receipts for the first four weeks the line averaged £800 a day; the second four weeks averaging £923 a day, the third four weeks and some days up to the 31st of October averaged £749 a day. On the 1st of November the tariff was reduced to £2 a message, and for the first four weeks of the reduced tariff the receipts averaged £826 a day; for the next four weeks, £818 per day; for the four weeks ending the 24th of January, £751 a day; for the four weeks ending the 23d of February, £795 a day; and from the 24th of February to the 10th of March, 15 days, the receipts amounted to £16,639, or above £ 000 a day."

One of the numerous ways by which the long suffering people of New York city have been for years swindled by their "democratic" rulers is the following. An officer called the "City Chamberlain" is appointed, for the ostensible purpose of taking care of the city's money, with a salary of $10,000 and an allowance of $5,400 more, or clerk hire. He simply deposits the money (which amounts to millions) in a bank, and receives for the use of it $100,000 a year more, and hires no clerks at all. The Post intimates that the citizens have got about tired of this pretty arrangement, and are obtaining an act of the Legislature to do away with it.

AERONAUTS FOR BRAZIL. Among the passengers by the steamship Montmagk for Rio Janeiro, are Messrs. James and Ezra S. Allen of Providence, who go out under a contract with the Emperor of Brazil to accompany, to assist in the operations of the allied forces against Paraguay. There was considerable competition among aeronauts for contract, but it was awarded to these gentlemen on account of their experience in our armies during the rebellion, James Allen having been the first person employed in that capacity in the late war.

The French loans made on account of Mexico amount to about $67,000,000. If France should not pay them they will be thrown into that Sebastian bag where the Mississippi bonds and Confederate debts of all kinds. Mexico does n't pay her own debts, and could not be expected to give any attention to those of France. It is supposed that these bonds will be converted into French three per cents., which are worth in Europe always as much as our sixes.—[Traveller.

An English court has just decided that if the American Government sells heir to Confederate property, it also falls heir to Confederate debts, and that if Confederate property be declared Americ...n, it may be ... upon against the Cotton Loans, and seized by the holders of this loan as a reimbursement for their losses! One spunky thing is decided, at the rest will follow suit, and the United States Government will have little to gather nothing but a crop of costs to pay!

The News & Courier

IN AN ATTIC

You hapless dwellers in the lower rooms
See only bricks and sashes and windowed walls,
But here, above the dust and smoky blooms,
Heaven's light unhindered falls.

So early in the streets the shadows creep
Your night begins while yet my eyes behold
The purpling hills, the wide Hudson's sweep,
Flooded with sunset gold.

The day comes earlier here. At morn I see
Along the reach the oldest sunbeams peep—
I live in daylight, restless and free,
While you are lost in sleep

I catch the rustle of the maple leaves,
I see the breathing branches rise and fall,
And hear from their high perch along the eaves,
The bright-necked pigeons call.

Far from the parlors with their parrulous crowds
I dwell alone with Hope's seed of words
I have little fellowship with the stars and clouds
And love-trysts with the birds

So all that waft sleep wears, in grief and night,
Where every step is full of toil and pain,
May somewhere they have gained the sharpest height
It has not been in vain

Since they have left behind the noise and heat—
And though their eyes drop tears, their sight is clear
The air is pure and the breeze is sweet,
And the blue heavens more near.

ONLY A BROOK.

A dying child feared the River of Death, but while passing over, whispered, "It is only a little brook after all!"

Dear mother I tremble to think I must die,
It is lonely and sad in the dark grave to lie,
Could you but be with me I know that your hand
Would guide through the gloom of Death's shadowy land

This deep endless river! I shrink as I feel
Its darkness and mystery over me steal
I fear its wild waves will my soul overwhelm
Ere I reach the far shore of the heavenly realm.

But what is this music that falls on my ear
Enchanting my senses, dispelling my fear?
Oh the angels are waiting to lead me alone
They're bearing me safe to my dear Father's home

The playmates I loved who have gone, on before
Are waiting for me on yon beautiful shore
Jesus beckons to me—I follow his call—
It is only a little brook, after all

Accident Insurance.

BY THE "FAT CONTRIBUTOR."

The 'Breakneck Accident Insurance Company' wrote to the 'Fat Contributor' not long since to work up a column or so of inducements for people to take policies This is the way he did it

Everybody should get insured against accident. No matter if you belong to one of the best families—accidents will happen in them

Get a policy The old proverb says 'Best policy is the best policy, but that was before Accident Insurance Company started Now the best policy is a policy in the "Breakneck"

The other day a man in Chicago fell out of a fourth-story window He had no insurance, and consequently was killed Another man on the same day fell out with his wife He was insured in the "Breakneck, and is ready to fall out again

At Dubuque, Iowa, a man was kicked by a horse The horse was not insured and he got kicked back

Near Paris Ky., a man while engaged in running a circular saw, had his arms taken off They consisted of a cavalry sabre and a double barreled shot gun The man who carried them off had an accident insurance—and hasn't been caught yet

In Philadelphia a man fell from a scaffold and broke his neck If he had been insured in the 'Breakneck his sentence might have been commuted to imprisonment for life Why will men neglect these things'

Our agent at Penn Yan, N Y writes One of my neighbors whom I had solicited to take a policy, laughed at me for thinking he could not take care of himself The very next day he fell from the roof of his house and—and wasn't hurt a bit

In Utica N Y a man accidentally got married Being insured in the 'Breakneck' he will receive fifteen dollars a week until he recovers

Andy Johnson writes from Washington My Policy has run out. Send me another by express

A young man in Portsmouth, Ohio, was jilted by a young lady and sued her to recover damages, insured in the 'Breakneck' Fifteen dollars a week until he recovers

A man was sentenced to solitary confinement for life in the Michigan State Prison Policy in the 'Breakneck,' fifteen dollars a week as long as he is confined to his room

A gray headed old man was insured in the 'Breakneck' The very next day he bought a bottle of hair dye—and dyed His family received a handsome sum on the blackboard

Two cattle drovers started with a drove of cattle to New York One had a policy, and the other had none There was a collision and the one who had the policy wasn't hurt a bit—and the other wasn't either Insure in the 'Breakneck'

Near Portland, Maine, a poor man fell from a loft and broke his neck He recovered his insurance, three thousand dollars, from the 'Breakneck,' with which he was enabled to set himself up in business, and is now doing well

Our agent at Cleveland, Ohio writes 'A lumber horse ran away with a bob tailed wagon and tipped the street over into a small woman and six children, The horse began to cry and the wagon bled freely at the nose, but otherwise the street is doing well No insurance

A boiler exploded at Memphis, blowing the engineer into the air quite out of sight He will receive fifteen dollars a day until he comes down again

A hog drover in Mt Sterling, Ky, was very much hurt by a fall—fall in Pork, No insurance.

John Smith of Michigan, lost a good deal of time by a sprain An agent of 'Breakneck' found it and returned it to him

A man ran away from Litchfield, Ill to avoid paying his debts He left a family (not being able to take them with him) No insurance

A member of Congress from New York city went to Washington, and fell from a race—spraining his brains so badly that he was forced to carry them in a sling No insurance

SLEEPING APARTMENTS 'It must not be forgotton,' remarks Hufeland, 'that we pass a considerable portion of our lives in the bed chamber consequently that all causes that influence the wholesomeness cannot fail of having a very important influence upon our physical well being'

Every one in fact, who is actuated by a due regard for health and real comfort, will consider at least an equal degree of attention necessary in regard to the size, situation, temperature and cleanliness of the room he occupies during the hours of repose, as of his parlor, drawing room, or any other apartment and yet how often do we find families crowded at night into obscure and confined chambers, of dimensions scarcely more ample than those of an old fashioned closet, while, perhaps, in most instances, the best rooms in the house will be set aside for the sole purpose of ostentatious display

It is important that the largest and most lofty room upon the second floor be appropriated for the sleeping apartment, and that it be freely ventilated during the day time at all seasons when the weather is not rainy, or otherwise very humid There are few houses, the rooms of which are so situated as to render the latter impracticable and the inadequacy of the practice upon the health of inmates is too important to permit its being neglected for any slight cause

PAYING FOR HIS PREFERMENT BY PAYING We have no intention of making fun of religious matters in telling the following good story—we merely relate a fact:—

There is a rule at Oberlin College that no students shall board at any house where prayers are not regularly made each day A certain man fitted up a boarding house, and although well boarded, but forgot, in the shuffle of hurry, his prayer privilege Not being a praying man himself, he took around for one who was At length he found one—a meek young saint from Vermont, who agreed to pay for his board in prayer For a while all went smooth by, till the boarding master furnished his table so poorly that the boarders began to MORGAN'S MEN IN OHIO The ex rebel General Basil Duke, late second in command to Morgan, writes of the conduct of the rebel troops on the celebrated raid into Ohio.

'The disposition for wholesome plunder exceeded anything that any of us had ever seen before. The men seemed actuated by a desire to 'pay off' in the 'enemy's country all scores that the federal army had chalked up in the South. The great cause for apprehension, which our situation might have inspired seemed only to make them reckless. Calico was the staple article of appropriation—each man (who could get one) had a belt of it on his saddle, only to throw it away and get a fresh one at the first opportunity They did not pilfarge with any sort of method or reason—it seemed to be a mania, senseless and purposeless One man carried a bird cage, with three canaries in it, for two days Another one rode with a shaving dish, which looked like a small lime kettle coffin, on the pummel of his saddle, until an officer forced him to throw it away Although the weather was intensely warm, another still slung seven pairs of skates around his neck, and chuckled over his acquisition I saw very few articles of real value taken—they pillaged like boys robbing an orchard I would not have believed that such a passion could have been developed, so indiscreetly, among any body of civilized men At Piketon, O, one man broke through the guard posted at a store rushed in (trembling with excitement and avarice) and filled his pockets with horn buttons They would, with few exceptions, throw away their plunder after awhile like children tired of their toys'

The General says that they were treated with distinguished attention by the citizens of Ohio

Before quitting Ohio it is but just to acknowledge the kind hospitality of the citizens Al every house that we approached the dwellers hereof, themselves absent, perhaps unable to endure a meeting that would have been painful, had left warm pies freshly based upon the tables This touching attention to our tastes was appreciated Some individuals were delicate enough to hint that the pies were intended to propitiate us and prevent the plunder of the houses'

CELIBACY The increase of celibacy in France and especially in Paris is still a subject of discussion The government which wants soldiers, the manufacturers who want hands, the farmers who who want laborers and last but not least, the women who want husbands, ask everybody, ask each other ask in perplexity and consternation, Why don't the men marry?' Pere Hyacinth preaches against celibacy at Notre Dame, the newspaps preach against it at the street corners, yet, as one of them despairingly remarks in an hour's walk from the Madeleine to the Bastille, one may now meet at least a hundred thousand bachelors

In former times, continues this writer, an unmarried man was obliged to exhaust his ingenuity in framing excuses for his condition 'Alas, I am yet the victim of betrayed affection 'Alas my villain of a mother has made away with all my fortune' Alas I am like Werther, I am in love with a woman who is already married Alas, I have suffered much' Alas I am like Sidney, I dare not mention the name of her I love' But no one ever dared to avow his final determinence, he appealed to the compassion of his friends for a temporary crisis in fortune and they, credulous, were willing to exclaim, 'The poor fellow, he is a bachelor in spite of himself'

But all this is changed now From the top to the bottom of the social scale comes the unblush ng asseveration, 'I am a bachelor, I have been a bachelor, and I always will be a bachelor' and reasons are as forcible as formerly excused 'I will not marry, because I wish to extend my youth to my last days 'I will not marry, because in 18?? it costs too much to dress a wife 'I will not marry, because I want to have peace at home'

The writer who laments these facts wax learned and remembers that in Sparta celibacy was considered a disgrace and that at a certain yearly festival it was the custom for the women to drive all bachelors out of the temple of Venus with myrtle branches gathered on the borders of the Eurotas As certain difficulties stand in the way of the revival of this classic custom, it is proposed to impose an annual tax, instead upon all unmarried men [Priv Cor N Y Post

HOW THE CABLE IS WORKED —The other day a telegrapher, who had looked into the matter, told me in a few words how the Atlantic cable is worked I had read column after column in the papers in a vain effort to understand how it was done, and was astonished enough, I assure you, to see how simple a thing was the instrument which talks across the sea. Imagine a small needle—it weighs only three-seventh of a gram set so that either end points to a powerful fixed magnet Over this needle is a board in which is a small hole, above and behind which is a blackboard One end of the needle, or rather coil magnet is the positive, and he other the negative one The battery is taken off at one side of the ocean by the action of the magnets themselves when the operator at the other side is writing The battery is at either end consists only of three cups, a wonderfully small number when you know that it takes a thousand or more to work the various wires leading out of 145 Broadway, the head office here The application of a current from the battery to the positive magnet at Valentia induces an attraction of the needle by the negative magnet at Heart's Content, or vice versa The Movement of the needle, however is so very small that it could not be detected by the naked eye A powerful magnifier however carries the reflection of the motion of the needle through the hole in the board above, and transfers it in an enlarged, and with the aid of light, an enlightened form to the blackboard The alphabet is similar to, though not exactly like, the "Morse" and a motion of the needle one way implies a dash, or the other way a dot of course as many o each can be made use of as is desirable The magnet being equally attractive holds the needle stationary, when no other influence is applied And now for the reason why a small battery works the best It is not that a large battery, as has been popularly supposed, would eat up the conducting wire but that it would make the motion of the delicate needle too violent, to use a vulgar phrase, it would be perpetually 'swabbing about.' The small current used has no such effect I have tried to explain the matter in as few words as possible, as I heard it myself, from an eminent telegraph et, and trust I have made myself perspicuous to readers of the Courier —N Y. BOTTOMLESS LAKES Near the summit of a mountain in Portugal, in the province of Beira, is situated the Lake Essua—the waters of which are of a dark greenish hue Although no lakes have ever been in this lake, yet frequently fragments of ships, such as broken masts, spars, etc., have been found floating on it, though inclosed in its position This circumstance has very naturally led to the belief that it communicates with the ocean by some subterraneous passage—a belief which has been still further strengthened from the fact that the face of the lake becomes either rough or smooth as the ocean is found to be agitated of calm and also that, during stormy weather it produces a rumbling noise which may be heard at a distance of six or eight miles. It is a notorious fact that, by the present day though frequently tried by the seamen, its bottom has not been discovered. At a short distance from Zolneira, in Switzerland, a remarkable spring is known to arise from the centre of a natural basin of more than fifteen yards feet in its area. On the surface which overflows on the side it runs form a considerable conception, when it is known to forces, with much violence, a column of water of eighteen feet absolute altitude in surface. Although fed by the most copious and perpetually rivulets in alpine philosophy, its depth has not yet been ascertained, there having to implement this only plausible conjecture that being at the outlet of a deep, precipitous subterranean latch, [illegible]

A CURIOUS WAY OF GETTING RICHES—It is a custom in Berkshire, England, among women workers in the field, when their backs become much tired by bowing down while singling turnips with short shanked hoes, to lie down with their faces to the ground, allowing one to step across the lower part of the back on the lumbar region, with one foot, several times, until the pain of fatigue is removed Burton in his 'First Footsteps in East Africa,' narrated a very similar custom of females who led the camels, who, on feeling fatigued He at full length, prone, standing upon each others, back, trampling and kneading with their toes, and rise like giants refreshed' This custom is called 'fogai,' in Africa, in our country it is called 'straightening the back'

Astronomers for a long period have not admitted that the moon possessed an atmosphere, but from late improvements in astronomical instruments, it seems to be settled that that luminary has a slight but very rare atmosphere, of about one quarter of a mile in height, capable of supporting (according to the calculations of Prof. Loomis, of the Cincinnati observatory,) about the 45th part of an inch of mercury —while our atmosphere supports 30 inches It is so rare that it exceeds the most perfect vacuum that can be produced by the air pump' An European astronomer maintains that its reflected light contains an appreciable quantity of heat for he was able, by a 3 foot concave lens, to effect a most delicate and sensible thermometer

Far better than rest o body is rest of soul! It is wretched to be a slave, to groan bleed and toil, but far worse to be Satan's bondman, dragging about an evil conscience and an aching heart! Rest from this can be had but by coming to Jesus! And, if we come, he will lighten every other load Are you poor? Come and he will make you rich forever! Are you sick? Come, and he will cure your worst diseases! Are you sad? Come, and he will wipe away your tears! Are you bereaved? Come, and he will be to you a brother in adversity who changes not and never dies!
